

SUMMARY: The document below is the copy on the patent rolls of Queen Elizabeth's grant, dated 14 April 1592, of her reversionary interest in Colne Priory (as well as her reversionary interest in other properties not owned by Oxford) to Theophilus Adams and Thomas Butler.

The letters patent begin by reciting the terms of earlier grants, fines and inquisitions:

- grant dated 9 January 1575 of the manor of Dorchester in Oxfordshire, late parcel of the possessions of the Bishop of Lincoln, to Henry Norris (c.1525-1601), Lord Norris of Rycote (Henry Norris was the father of the military commander Sir John Norris (c.1547x50-1597), at whose petition the grant below was made);
- grant made 12 February 1541 of the Wiltshire manors of Lavington, formerly belonging to the monastery of Edington, and Temple Rockley, formerly belonging to the Hospital of Saint John of Jerusalem in England, to Edward Baynton & his wife, Isabelle, remainder to their son, Henry Baynton, and his heir male, and for lack of heir male of Henry, to the heirs of Isabelle;
- grant made 22 July 1536 of Colne Priory to John de Vere (1482-1540), 15th Earl of Oxford;
- fine by which Oxford transferred title to Colne Priory to the Queen, stated to have been made one month after Easter in 1588 (in 1588, Easter Sunday fell on 7 April, dating the fine to 6 May);
- regrant by the Queen to Oxford, dated 8 June 1588, of Colne Priory;
- grant made 28 January 1511 of the manors of Lowestoft, East Leet, West Leet, North Leet, South Leet, Gorleston & Mutford and the hundreds of Lothingland & Mutford in Suffolk, formerly belonging to Edmund de la Pole (1472?-1513), 8th Earl of Suffolk, to Edward Jerningham (d.1515) & Mary (d.1548), his wife, and their heirs (the manors of Lowestoft and Mutford are mentioned in the will of their son, Sir Henry Jerningham (1509/10-1572); see TNA PROB 11/55, ff. 134-6);
- grant made 20 September 1540 of the pasture of Mixton Hey in Staffordshire, formerly belonging to Hulton Abbey, to Edward Littleton and his heirs;
- grant made 6 January 1549 of Farnacres Chantry in Durham to Alexander Pringle and his heirs;
- grant made 28 February 1513 of the manor of Ruckholde in Essex (formerly belonging to Sir John Risley (d.1512), and previously to Sir Richard Charlton) to William Compton;

-grant made 23 November 1583 of the manor of Ansty in Wiltshire, formerly belonging to the preceptory of Saint John of Jerusalem in England, to Sir John Zouche (d.1585), remainder to Francis Zouche (d.1600) and his heirs, remainder to Edward Zouche and his heirs, and inquisition taken on 9 April 1591 which found that certain parcels of the same had been sold on 13 April 1589 by Francis Zouche to Sir Matthew Arundell (1532x4-1598).

The letters patent then provide that in consideration of the services rendered by Sir John Norris, and at his request, all the Queen's right to the reversion and reversions, remainder and remainders of these properties, together with any rents reserved, with certain stated exceptions, are granted to Theophilus Adams and Thomas Butler of London, gentlemen. The latter would appear to have been acting as agents of Sir John Norris, but otherwise the relationship between Norris and Adams and Butler is unclear. It may be that Sir John Norris received a fee from Adams and Butler for obtaining the grant from the Queen, and Adams and Butler profited by selling the reversions to individual buyers.

The letters patent then make the following further grants to Adams and Butler:

-the reversion of the manor of Bodiniel in Cornwall, formerly belonging to the monastery of Bodmin, and to Sir John Chamond;

-the reversion of all messuages and other properties in Newenham in Cornwall, formerly belonging to the monastery of Bodmin and granted to Walter and Lawrence Kendall and their heirs;

-the reversion of the capital messuage of the rectory and church of Launcells in Cornwall, formerly belonging to the monastery of Harland in Devon and to Sir John Chamond and Anne, his wife;

-the reversion of the manor of Boxworth in Cambridge, formerly belonging to the monastery of Tiltey, and granted to Sir John Cutt;

The letters patent then state certain exceptions to the above-mentioned grants, value the total grant at £141 15s 1-1/2d, and specify that Colne Priory is to be held in chief by service of the fortieth part of a knight's fee while all the other properties are to be held by fealty only in free and common socage of the Queen's manor of East Greenwich in Kent. There is to be a yearly payment for Colne Priory of £66, and of 58s 1d for the manors of Lavington & Temple Rockley.

The Queen's grant of her reversionary interest in Colne Priory to Adams and Butler appears to have been a direct result of Oxford's sale of Colne Priory two months earlier, on 7 February 1592, to Richard Harlakenden (see ERO D/DU 256/1). For the licence dated 1 February 1592 authorizing Oxford and his second wife, Elizabeth Trentham, to alienate Colne Priory to Richard Harlakenden, see TNA C 66/1392, mm. 23-4. For the fine in the Court of Common Pleas dated 5 May 1592 by which clear title to Colne Priory passed from Oxford and his second wife, Elizabeth Trentham (d.1612), to Richard Harlakenden for £200, see TNA CP 25/2/135/1725/34ELIZIEASTER, Item 46.

The underlying purpose of the Queen's grant to Adams and Butler, insofar as it concerned Colne Priory, thus appears to have been to facilitate the uniting of Oxford's former interest in Colne Priory and the Queen's reversionary interest under a single owner, Richard Harlakenden. Adams and Butler appear to have functioned as intermediaries in obtaining a grant of the Queen's reversionary interest at the petition of Sir John Norris, and selling it to Richard Harlakenden, so that, with Oxford's original interest and the Queen's reversionary interest united, Harlakenden would become sole owner of the two interests in Colne Priory which had formerly been separate. The Queen's reversionary interest in Colne Priory, like any reversionary interest, was contingent on an event, in this case the eventual failure of the line of de Vere heirs. Once Oxford had sold Colne Priory to Richard Harlakenden on 7 February 1592, the dependence of the Queen's reversionary interest on the failure of the de Vere line was an anomalous condition, and the Queen was prepared to part with her reversionary interest in Colne Priory provided she continued to receive the £66 annual rent.

The Queen's grant of her reversionary interest in Colne Priory is mentioned in Thomas Hampton's deposition given in Easter term 1594 in Oxford's lawsuit against Roger Harlakenden (d.1603) for fraud in the sale of Colne Priory. In his answer to one of the interrogatories, Hampton provides the revealing information that it was he who initiated the suit for the grant of the Queen's reversion, and that he personally appointed Roger Harlakenden and John Drawater (d.1597) to obtain the grant (see TNA C 24/239/46):

5 That the said complainant authorized the said defendant, Roger Harlakenden, about the month of January in the 34th year [=January 1592] of her Majesty's reign (as this deponent was then given to understand both by the said complainant and by the defendant, Roger Harlakenden) to sell the said manor of Colne Priory and all other lands, tenements and hereditaments of the said complainant in the counties of Essex, Cambridge & Suffolk that were late parcel of the possessions of the said late-dissolved monastery or priory of Colne Priory, and that then the reversion of the same premises was in her Majesty, and that the said defendant, Roger, and John Drawater in the said interrogatory mentioned were appointed solicitors by this deponent's direction to get the reversion of the premises by grant from her Majesty by virtue of a grant made to Sir John Norris, knight, by her Majesty, as this deponent now remembereth.

It is perhaps significant that Thomas Hampton omits any reference to Oxford having authorized the appointment of Harlakenden and Drawater to obtain the Queen's reversionary interest.

For the partial judgment in Chancery on 10 February 1599 stating that 'Felton and Drawater', two of Oxford's servants, 'confederated' with Roger Harlakenden in the sale of Colne Priory in order to 'persuade Oxford that the lands were no more worth than Harlakenden offered', see TNA C 78/104/17, mm. 27-8.

It should also be noted that three properties included in the original grant of Colne Priory made by King Henry VIII to the 15th Earl and his heirs on 22 July 1536 are not mentioned in the fine of 6 May 1588, the Queen's regrant to Oxford of 8 June 1588 or the Queen's grant of 14 April 1592 to Adams and Butler below. These were the rectories of Dovercourt and Harwich in Essex, and the manor of Hinxton in Cambridge. The rectories of Dovercourt and Harwich had been granted back to King Henry VIII on 29 April 1544 by the 16th Earl (see TNA C 66/766, mm. 5-8). At Oxford's suit, the manor of Hinxton was granted by the Queen to John Machell by letters patent dated 24 May 1588 (see TNA C 66/1304, mm. 31-2). The letters patent state that Oxford had surrendered the manor of Hinxton to the Queen prior to the Queen's grant to Machell. It thus seems likely that the underlying purpose of Oxford's grant of Colne Priory to the Queen on 6 May 1588 and the Queen's regrant of Colne Priory to Oxford on 8 June 1588 was to sever the manor of Hinxton from King Henry VIII's original grant to the 15th Earl so that the manor could be sold to Machell.

It should be noted that for the sake of simplicity the foregoing summary refers to the property granted by King Henry VIII to the 15th Earl, and inherited by Oxford, as 'Colne Priory'. However as is evident from the original grant and the grant below, the property actually consisted of the lands of two former priories, namely the priory of Blessed Mary the Virgin & Saint John the Evangelist in Earls Colne (usually referred to as Colne Priory), and the priory of Blessed Mary & Saint James & the Holy Cross in Castle Hedingham (usually referred to as Hedingham Nunnery), as well as three manors (the manors of Colne Priory, Barwick and Hinxton), and several rectories, advowsons, tithes and pensions.
