

SUMMARY: The document below is the fine in the Court of Common Pleas dated one month after Easter Sunday in the year 1588 by which Oxford transferred title to Colne Priory and the manor of Bretts to the Queen; in 1588 Easter Sunday fell on 7 April, dating the fine to 6 May. The sum of £4000 mentioned in the fine merely represents a valuation of the properties for purposes of the fine. No money would have changed hands as indicated by the fact that by letters patent of 8 June 1588 Queen Elizabeth regranted the properties to Oxford (see TNA C 66/1393, mm. 11-16 and ERO T/B 177/3). As a result of the Queen's letters patent of 8 June 1588 Oxford held Colne Priory and Bretts to himself and the heirs of his body lawfully begotten (at the time, these were his three daughters by his first wife, Anne Cecil, who had died on 5 June 1588), and failing such issue, to the heirs of the body of John de Vere (1482-1540), 15th Earl of Oxford.

Four years later, Oxford sold Colne Priory to Roger Harlakenden (d.1603). For Harlakenden's fraud against Oxford in the sale of Colne Priory, see TNA C 78/104, mm. 27-8.

The manor of Bretts had once belonged to the Countess of Salisbury, had presumably escheated to the Crown when she was executed for treason in 1541, and was thus likely the subject of a grant from Henry VIII to some third party. Oxford had purchased Bretts on 7 March 1584 from Roger Townshend (see HL/PO/PB/1/1609/7J1n33). For the licence dated 2 March 1584 authorizing Townshend (c.1544-1590) to alienate the manor of Bretts to Oxford, see TNA C 66/1248, m. 27.

The manor of Hinxton in Cambridge and the rectories of Dovercourt and Harwich named in the original grant of Colne Priory made by King Henry VIII to John de Vere (1482-1540), 15th Earl of Oxford, and his heirs on 22 July 1536 (see TNA C 66/668, mm. 26-7) are not mentioned in either the fine of 6 May 1588 by which Oxford granted Colne Priory to the Queen or the Queen's regrant to Oxford of 8 June 1588. The rectories of Dovercourt and Harwich had been granted back to King Henry VIII on 29 April 1544 by the 16th Earl (see TNA C 66/766, mm. 5-8). At Oxford's suit, the manor of Hinxton was granted by the Queen to John Machell by letters patent dated 24 May 1588 (see TNA C 66/1304, mm. 31-2). The letters patent indicate that Oxford had surrendered the manor of Hinxton to the Queen prior to the Queen's grant to Machell. It thus seems likely that the underlying purpose of Oxford's grant of Colne Priory to the Queen on 6 May 1588 and the Queen's regrant of Colne Priory to Oxford on 8 June 1588 was to break the entail and sever the manor of Hinxton from the original grant.

This is the final agreement made in the court of the Lady Queen at Westminster one month after Easter day in the thirtieth year [=6 May 1588] of the reigns of Elizabeth, by the grace of God of England, France & Ireland Queen, Defender of the Faith, etc. from the Conquest before Edmund Anderson, Francis Wyndham, William Peryam & Francis Rodes, justices, & others faithful to the Lady Queen then there present, between the same
