

SUMMARY: The document below is the Prerogative Court of Canterbury copy of the undated last will and testament, proved 10 November 1615, of John Combe (buried 12 July 1614), who in 1602 sold 107 acres of land to William Shakespeare of Stratford upon Avon (see SBTRO ER 27/1) and bequeathed him £5 in the will below.

The testator was the son of John Combe (d.1588), who is said to have married four times. The testator was the son of his father's first marriage to Joyce Blount, the daughter of Edward Blount of Kidderminster (see Bellew, infra, p. 368) and granddaughter of Sir Thomas Blount (see Lewis, infra, p. 326). According to Adams, Edward Blount of Kidderminster, third son of Sir Thomas Blount (d.1524) of Kinlet, was in the service of Leicester's father, John Dudley (1504–1553), Earl of Northumberland, and Edward Blount's son, Thomas Blount (d.1568) of Kidderminster, was Leicester's leading officer of household, and may have been Leicester's steward at Kenilworth. See the will of Thomas Blount of Kidderminster, dated 28 November 1568 and proved 24 March 1569, TNA PROB 11/51/110, in which the testator leaves a bequest to 'my nephew, Thomas Combes', i.e. Thomas Combe (d.1609); the nuncupative will of Edward Blount of Kidderminster, dated 7 June 1557, TNA PROB 11/43/182; and Adams, Simon, Leicester and the Court: Essays on Elizabethan Politics, (Manchester: Manchester University Press, 2002), p. 331 at:

By Joyce Blount, John Combe (d.1588) had four sons and a daughter:

* Edward Combe (d.1597) of Wasperton, Warwickshire, who married Anne Hales, the daughter of Stephen Hales (d. 27 March 1574). Anne Hales may have been the daughter of Stephen Hales' first wife, Amy Morison, sister of the diplomat Sir Richard Morison (d.1557). Before her marriage to Stephen Hales, Amy Morison had been the wife of Robert Beale, by whom she was the mother of the diplomat and Clerk of the Privy Council, Robert Beale (1541-1601), for whom see the ODNB article and the will of Robert Beale dated 16 September 1545, TNA PROB 11/32/171. After the death of Robert Beale, Amy Morison married secondly, on 26 June 1546, Stephen Hales (d. 27 March 1574), esquire, of Newland and Exhall, Warwickshire, freeman of the Merchant Taylors' Company in 1552, Warden in 1557, 1564 and 1565, and one of the four founders of the Merchant Taylors' School. See the will of Sir Richard Morison, TNA PROB 11/39/330, in which he mentions 'my sister Amy's children by Stephen Hales'; the Wikipedia article on Stephen Hales' brother, John Hales (d.1572) edited by the author of this summary; Lewis, infra, p. 326; Bellew, infra, p. 148; and 'Combs Families of Coventry' at:

<http://www.combs-families.org/combs/records/england/war/coventry.htm>.

By Anne Hales Edward Combe had three daughters: Joyce, who married firstly, in 1592, John Gardner, and secondly Sir Francis Cornwall of Burford, Shropshire; Elizabeth (d.1598); and Anne, who in 1601 married Robert Decons of Wasperton. After the death of Edward Combe in 1597, his widow, Anne (nee Hales), married Humphrey Ward (see Lewis, infra, p. 326).

* Thomas Combe (d.1609) of College House, Old Stratford, who in 1586 married Mary Bonner (d. 5 April 1617), daughter of Anthony Bonner (d.1580) and Bridget Savage (d.1608x11), sister of Francis Savage (c.1524 - 19 August 1557). See Richardson, Douglas, Magna Carta Ancestry, 2nd ed., 2011, Vol. III, pp. 493-4, and Vol. IV, p. 387; the will of Francis Savage dated 17 August 1557 and proved 4 July 1558, TNA PROB 11/40/349; the will of Anthony Bonner, dated 16 November 1579 and proved 2 November 1580, TNA PROB 11/62/452; and the will of Bridget (nee Savage) Bonner (d.1608x11), dated 16 January 1608 and proved 3 June 1611, TNA PROB 11/118/12.

At the time of her marriage to Thomas Combe (d.1609) Mary Bonner was the widow of William Yonge (d. December 1583), gentleman, of Caynton (in Edgmond), Shropshire, (whose first wife had been Anne Sneyd, aunt of Oxford's second wife, Elizabeth Trentham), by whom she had an only daughter, Bridget Yonge. By Thomas Combe (d.1609), Mary Bonner had two sons, William Combe (1586-1667) and Thomas Combe (1589-1657) (to whom William Shakespeare of Stratford upon Avon left a sword in his will), and two daughters, Mary (1591-1620), who married Edward Lane (d.1625), and Joyce (b.1593). For the will of Thomas Combe (d.1609), see TNA PROB 11/113/130.

* The testator, John Combe (buried 12 July 1614), who died a bachelor. See Bellew, infra, p. 366.

* George Combe, who married a wife surnamed Barcroft, by whom he had a son, John Combe of Ulvechurch, Worcestershire. See Lewis, infra, p. 326.

* Elizabeth Combe.

The testator's father, John Combe (d.1588), married secondly, on 27 August 1561, Rose Clopton (buried 14 October 1579), the daughter of William Clopton (d.1560) by Elizabeth Grey (b.1505), the daughter of Sir Edward Grey of Enville, Staffordshire, and Anne Middleton. Rose Clopton was the sister of William Clopton (1537-1592), owner of New Place (later purchased by William Shakespeare of Stratford upon Avon), who married Anne Griffith, the daughter of George Griffith, of Stockton, Warwickshire, by whom he was the father of Joyce Clopton (1562-1637), Maid of Honour to Queen Elizabeth, who on 31 May 1580 married the soldier and courtier George Carew (1555-1629), later Earl of Totnes. Carew was a favourite of James I, and vice-chamberlain of the household to James' wife, Anne of Denmark. Joyce Clopton was thus the wife of George Carew during the years when Oxford's second wife, Elizabeth Trentham, was a Maid of Honour to the Queen. See the ODNB entry for George Carew, and Anagrammata on this website. By his second wife, Rose Clopton, John Combe (d.1588) had several children. See ‘The Cloptons of Warwickshire’ at:

By Rose Clopton the testator’s father had a son, John Combe (b.1563), who married Joan Murcott; a daughter, Elizabeth Combe, who married John Hyett (according to Lewis, Wyett); and three other sons who appear to have died young. See Lewis, infra, p. 326.

The foregoing information identifies most of the persons named in the testator’s will below. For further details of the testator’s relationship to the children of his father’s first and second marriages, see SBTRO ER 27/1; and the pedigree in Lewis, B. In the will below the testator requests burial in the church of Holy Trinity in Stratford upon Avon ‘near to the place where my mother was buried’.

The testator’s uncle, John Blount, mentioned in the will below, was the brother of the testator’s mother, and the younger son of Edward Blount of Kidderminster. See the will of Edward Blount of Kidderminster, TNA PROB 11/43/182.

Sir Edward Blount, whom the testator appoints as one of his overseers, may have been Leicester’s servant, Edward Blount (c.1554-1630), elder son of Thomas Blount (another brother of the testator’s mother). For the will of Thomas Blount, see TNA PROB 11/51/110.

For the testator’s executor, Sir Richard Verney, see the History of Parliament entry at:

<http://www.historyofparliamentonline.org/volume/1558-1603/member/verney-richard-1563-1630>.

Verney was a lifelong friend of Sir William Cooke (d.1619), son of Lord Burghley's brother-in-law, William Cooke (d.1589) by Frances Grey. In 1597 Verney negotiated Cooke's marriage to Joyce Lucy, the daughter of Thomas Lucy (1551–1605), son of the Sir Thomas Lucy (d.1600) of Charlecote who allegedly prosecuted William Shakespeare of Stratford upon Avon for deer poaching. See Richardson, Douglas, Plantagenet Ancestry, 2nd ed., 2011, Vol. II, p. 172; the will of Sir John Grey, TNA PROB 11/48/27; the will of Sir Anthony Cooke, TNA PROB 11/59/110; the entry for Sir Thomas Lucy (d.1600) of Charlecote in the ODNB; a letter from Master Richard Verney to Sir Robert Cecil, dated 6 June 1597, and the History of Parliament for William Cooke at:

The identity of the testator's first cousin, Sir Henry Clare, mentioned in the will below, has not hitherto been ascertained. He was the younger son of Simon Clare of Kidderminster, by Anne or Agnes Blount, the daughter of Edward Blount of Kidderminster. It would appear that Anne was the sister of the testator's mother, Joyce Blount. Sir Henry Clare's elder brother was Sir Francis Clare, who married Muriel Sheldon, the daughter of Ralph Sheldon of Beoley. See the will of Simon Clare, dated 17 May 1580, TNA PROB 11/63/330; the will of Ralph Sheldon of Beoley, TNA PROB 11/121/345; and Grazebrook, H. Clare of Caldwell Hall, Kidderminster, and Croome D'Abitot, as borne by Sir Ralph Clare of Caldwell, who was created a Knight of the Bath at the coronation of Charles I. This gallant cavalier, who died in 1670, aged 84, was the eldest son of Sir Francis Clare of Caldwell by Muriel, daughter of Ralph Sheldon of Beoley, grandson of Simon Clare by Anne, daughter of Edward Blount of Kidderminster, and great-grandson of Gilbert Clare, who was a son of Nicholas Clare by Margaret, daughter of Symon Ryce of Croome D'Abitot, which Simon Ryce was the son of Thomas Ryce of Shrewsbury by Margaret, daughter and heiress of John, son of Sir Geoffrey D'Abitot of Croome. The family pedigree was recorded at the Visitation of 1682-3.

See also the pedigree of Clare of Crome D'Abitot in Grazebrook, George, and John Paul Rylands, eds., The Visitation of Shropshire Taken in the Year 1623, (London: Harleian Society, 1889), p. 113 at:

<https://archive.org/stream/visitationshrop00britgoog#page/n166/mode/2up>.

The testator leaves bequests to his ‘cousin, Margaret Reynolds’, wife of Thomas Reynolds the elder of Old Stratford, and to the children of Jane Fetherston, daughter of Thomas Reynolds the elder. According to the pedigree of Reynolds, Thomas Reynolds the elder was the son of Hugh Reynolds of Old Stratford and Joyce Blount, the daughter of ‘Robert Blount of Glason Park near Ashley’. See Fetherston, John, ed., The Visitation of the County of Warwick in the Year 1619, (London: Harleian Society, 1877), Vol. XII, pp. 242-3 at:

<https://archive.org/stream/visitationcount01britgoog#page/n268/mode/2up>.

It appears, however, that the pedigree is inaccurate, and that Joyce Blount was the daughter of Walter Blount (d.1561) of Glasshampton Park near Astley, Worcestershire, by Isabel Acton, the daughter of Walter Acton. Joyce Blount, the wife of Hugh Reynolds, was thus the sister (not the daughter) of Robert Blount (d. 25 May 1573), for whose will see TNA PROB 11/55/263. See the pedigree of Blount in Collections for a History of Staffordshire, supra, p. 81.

Reynolds, Hugh “. . . a well-to-do and well-connected yeoman. His wife was Joyce, daughter to Walter Blount of Glason Park. He owned leases of ‘Colles’ (Colley’s?) Farm in Old Stratford, a farm at Shottery, and ‘Hall’s Close’ by the Bridge, and was owner or lessee of at least seven barns—three in Swine Street, one on Bankcroft Side, one in Chapel Lane, the Old Town Barn, and the College Tithe-Barn. His house in Chapel street was of modest dimensions but very comfortably furnished, of two stories, containing a ‘hall,’ a parlour, two upper chambers, a servants’ chamber, a kitchen and buttery. . . . His son, Thomas, who married Margaret, the daughter and coheirress to William Gower of Remarley, and had by her a large family, made his home, in or before 1585, at Colles (Colley’s?) Farm near the Church. His household in 1595 consisted, with servants, of no less than twenty-two persons, and was the largest we hear of in Stratford. He and his wife were stout Roman Catholics, paying their monthly fines for recusancy. Their eldest son, the heir of his mother, William, born in 1575, was one of the numerous young men of good family who enjoyed the friendship of Shakespeare. He married a lady from London, Frances de Bois, at Clifford Chambers, on 3 August 1615. Shakespeare may have been at the wedding. 'To William Reynolds gentleman' he left in his will, in March 1616, '25s. 9d. to buy him a ring'" (Fripp, Shakespeare's Stratford, 42).

As noted by Enos, supra, and by Palmer, William Reynolds (1575-1633) was bequeathed money for a ring in the will of William Shakespeare of Stratford upon Avon. See Palmer, Alan and Veronica Palmer, Who's Who in Shakespeare's England, (New York: St Martin's Press, 1981, 1999), p. 202.

It is often claimed that William Shakespeare of Stratford upon Avon wrote doggerel verses on the testator on the basis of a diary written by a Lieutenant Hammond, BL MS 213, ff. 315-84. See Legg, L.G. Wickham, ed., A Relation of a Short Survey of 26 Counties, (London: F.E. Robinson, 1904), pp. 77-8 at:

<https://archive.org/stream/relationofshorts00capt#page/76/mode/2up>

In that dayes travell we came by Stratford vpon Auon, where in the Church in that Towne there are some Monuments which Church was built by Archbishop Stratford; Those worth obseruing and which wee tooke notice were these.

*A Monument for the E. of Totnes, and his Lady, yet liuing.
The Monument of Sir Hugh Clopton, who built that strong Stone Bridge of 18. fayre Arches, ouer that Riuer; He was Lord Mayor of London.
A neat Monument of that famous English Poet, Mr. William Shakespeere; who was borne heere.
And one of an old Gentleman a Batchelor, Mr. Combe, vpon whose name, the sayd Poet, did merrily fann vp some witty, and facetious verses, which time would nott giue us leaue to sacke vp.*

The first monument mentioned is that of George Carew (1555-1629), Earl of Totnes, and his wife, Joyce Blount, Maid of Honour to Queen Elizabeth, the testator's distant relatives through his father's second marriage (see above).

With respect to the verses on the testator allegedly penned by Shakespeare, it should be noted that when Lieutenant Hammond passed through Stratford upon Avon on 9 September 1634 he did not record them for lack of time, and his information that they were written by Shakespeare cannot have been anything other than hearsay. Versions of the alleged epitaph were common at the time, including one printed in 1608 in The More the Merrier by H.P., a work now attributed to Henry Peacham. Moreover according to Legg, Lieutenant Hammond's diary and other pieces in BL MS 213 are all written in the same hand, a hand which cannot date from earlier than the Restoration, i.e. 1660.
