

SUMMARY: The document below is the Prerogative Court of Canterbury copy of the last will and testament, dated 30 July 1549 and proved 16 May 1552, of Sylvester Danvers (c. 1518-1552) of Dauntsey, Wiltshire, whose son, Sir John Danvers (1540-1594) purchased Oxford's manor of Christian Malford (see TNA C 2/Eliz/D4/46), and whose daughter-in-law, Elizabeth (nee Neville) Danvers (1545x50-1630), was Oxford's kinswoman and the mother of Sir Charles Danvers (c.1568-1601), executed for his part in the Essex Rebellion in 1601. Sir Charles Danvers' lands escheated to the Crown after his attainder, and Oxford was involved in an attempt to secure those lands for the Queen (see TNA SP 12/279/123, f. 225 and related documents).

The testator's bequest mentioning 'the sum of two hundred pounds which I bequeathed to Margery, my daughter', suggests that he had a fourth daughter, Margery, who predeceased him.

The testator married secondly Elizabeth Rede, the daughter of William Rede of Milton, by whom he had a son:

* Giles Danvers, whose birth is anticipated in the will below. See Macnamara, supra, p. 282. He married the widow of one Hungerford.

OTHER PERSONS MENTIONED IN THE WILL

The testator's executor, Walter Hungerford (d.1595x7), was the son of Walter Hungerford (1503-1540), Baron Hungerford of Heytesbury, who had been married to the testator's aunt, Susan Danvers. See the pedigree in Macnamara, supra, and the entries in the Oxford Dictionary of National Biography:

Hungerford, Walter, Baron Hungerford of Heytesbury (1503–1540), alleged traitor, was the only child of Sir Edward Hungerford (d. 1522) of Farleigh Hungerford, Somerset, and his first wife, Jane, daughter of John, Lord Zouche, of Harringworth. He married first Susan, daughter of Sir John Danvers of Dauntsey, Wiltshire; second, in 1527, Alice, daughter of William, Lord Sandys, of the Vine; and third, in October 1532, Elizabeth (d. 1554), daughter of John, Lord Hussey of Sleaford. . . .

Sir Walter Hungerford (d. 1595x7), first son of Walter, Baron Hungerford, and his third wife, Elizabeth Hussey, was popularly named 'the knight of Farley' in recognition of his sporting prowess. The younger Walter, who like his father had been in the service of Thomas Cromwell, was restored in blood in 1542 and recovered the greater part of the Hungerford estate in 1554 at his marriage to Anne Basset, a maid of honour to Mary I. He was knighted in 1554 and sat in parliament for Wiltshire (1554) and for Bodmin, Cornwall (1558). . . .

The testator's executor, Sir Anthony Hungerford (c. 1485-1559) of Down Ampney, Gloucestershire, was the husband of the testator's aunt, Dorothy Danvers (d.1557x9). See the pedigree in Macnamara, supra.
